

The Grist Mill

The Bulletin's make-up editor, George Davies, who, with his charming wife, twin boys and young daughter, lives on the Wilson estate at Old Gulph and Hag's Ford Rds., Penn Valley, is wondering what to do about a huge flashlight he found alongside the road en route to the Narberth Station one morning recently. Lettering on the light indicates that its owner is clothed with considerable authority hereabouts but Davies doesn't know just how to go about returning it since an abrupt and undiplomatic transfer might land the then custodian in the well-known hot water. At present, an under cover agent for Davies is negotiating with a guy called Bill.

Walter Fuller, Curtis Publishing Company president, is building a swell chicken coop on his place on Righter's Mill Rd., Penn Valley, and doing the carpentry work himself week-ends and evenings. Fuller, who has somewhat of a national reputation for effective dealing with businessmen, big and little, as is evidenced by his being a past president of the National Association of Manufacturers, swung a mean hammer, clad fittingly in blue shorts, a sleeveless jersey and sneakers.

An uncooperative cat strolled nonchalantly across the stage of Roberts Hall at Haverford College last Saturday evening as the President of the Main Line Cooperative Association held forth about co-operation. The Cooperators were amused but one gent decided the cat didn't add to the dignity of the occasion and hustled the animal out the aisle in his arms.

Hugh Leahy of Grayling Ave., Narberth, is doing pretty well by his country with three sons in the service. Lieutenant Hugh D. Leahy, of a Coast Artillery anti-aircraft unit, was home last week-end for a brief visit with his family, leaving Sunday night by plane for Long Beach, Calif. Lieutenant Leahy just missed a trip to Attu with his comrades recently by virtue of coming down with the measles. He expects to make up for the omission in the future, however. Brookline Humbles Narberth; Manoa Takes Doubleheader from W. Phils.

Virtually overnight the Main Line Baseball League pennant chase has turned from a runaway into a tense, free-for-all scramble.

Narberth's pace-setting team was handed a surprise jolt by Brookline last Sunday while Manoa was taking a double-header from the West Phils, thereby reducing the lead of the boroughites to one and one-half games.

A winning streak by third place Pen-Mar could project it right into the middle of this first place fight, but the Irvinmen could get no better than an even break in a twin-bill with Overbrook last week and apparently will be hard pressed to maintain their skinny half-game edge in the first division.

Overbrook appears to have an excellent chance of making the playoffs for the first time, but it's one and one-half game margin over fifth place Brookline is none too comfortable, especially since the Brooks scored that 5-2 victory over Narberth.

Manoa will have a chance to pick up a half-game on Narberth this

Magistrate Post To Be Contested In the Boro

Three Seek Position; Two to be Elected; Other Republican Candidates Unopposed

Narberth Borough will elect three councilmen, three school directors, two justices of the peace, one auditor and one constable this year but there will be only one contest in the September primary.

That will be for the office of magistrate where three have filed, two to be elected. The candidates are the two incumbents, both of whom were appointed to their posts to fill vacancies—Otto B. Duer and J. Louis Jenkins—and Fred Walzer, a former magistrate.

B. P. Carey Elected To P. E. Legal Post

Bernard P. Carey was elected vice-president in charge of legal affairs of the Philadelphia Electric Company at a meeting of the Board of Directors held July 27. The announcement was made by H. P. Liversidge, president.

Born in Philadelphia, Carey completed an academic course in the Brown Preparatory School and later graduated from the Temple University Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1924.

Carey is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Gas Association, and a past president of the Pennsylvania Electric Association. He is also a past president of the Philadelphia Electric Company Employees' Association and a trustee of the Malvern Preparatory School at Malvern, Pa.

AIR RAID DRILL TESTS ALL CLEAR

Confusion Caused by Second Red Signal in Midnight Alert

Inquiry at the office of the Council of Defense in the Township Building revealed that the air raid drill on the night of July 27-28 was designed to test the efficiency of the various audible signals authorized. The response in Lower Merion Township was, as it has been in all of these tests, for the most part very satisfactory.

Some little confusion was caused by the failure to interpret the second red signal, that is the fluctuating sound of the sirens, as a second red and not as the all clear.

Between the sounding of the red signal, the fluctuating sound, and that of the blue signal, the straight blast, there should be no movement on the streets either of pedestrians or vehicles, except of those properly authorized to move about. For this reason it is necessary that the citizens recognize the difference between straight blasts on the siren and fluctuating blasts. The all clear signal is also a straight blast for 15 seconds and always follows the longer straight blast of the blue signal.

HEALTH REPORT

Six cases of contagious disease were reported in Lower Merion Township during the week ending July 23.

They were one chickenpox, three mumps, one pneumonia and one whooping cough.

The three filing for the Republican nomination to the Council vacancies are Franklin C. Hutchinson, William P. Davies, and Robert M. Cameron. Hutchinson and Davies are incumbents.

Republican candidates for the School Board are Cletus Sent, Walter Steckbeck and Lulu W. McCartney.

F. F. Richard Griffith is a candidate for auditor without opposition. John A. Miller is without opposition for nomination as constable.

Also, all of these candidates are virtually assured of election in November because the Democrats failed to enter the names of candidates for Borough posts.

Election Board candidates to file are as follows:

Republican:
District 1—Judge of election, Emma L. Mueller; Inspector of election, James MacCrackin.
District 2—Judge of election, Walter L. Biegeman; Inspector, George A. Purring.
District 3—Judge of election, Julius A. Bailey, Jr.; Inspector, Elizabeth L. Williams.
Democrats:
District 3—Inspector, Helen Gara.

Miss Grace Feted At Surprise Shower

Jane Henderson of 134 N. Narberth, last week gave a party and surprise shower for Miss Betty Grace who is leaving shortly for Phoenix, Arizona, where she will be married to Aviation Cadet John E. Oatis.

Guests at the bridge party were Joan Deal, of Bala Cynwyd, Mary and Barbara Young, Martha Wheeler and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, all of Narberth, Mrs. Robert C. Collins, Jr., of Overbrook, and Mrs. L. H. Healy, of Philadelphia.

FREE LANCE ARTIST ADDRESSES ROTARY

Outlines Field of Commercial Art For Main Liners

Wallace Smiles, well-known free lance commercial artist was the guest speaker at that last meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd and Narberth Rotary Club. He outlined the kind of work he does, and surveyed the field as a whole.

During the meeting, five members were honored with birthday flowers. They were: William Durbin, George Loughery, Conrad Albrecht, Reverend Robert L. Kelghon, and Dr. E. R. Disbrow, Jr.

Winners at the Club's recent Golf Outing were: William Decker, first prize; Alvin Shull, second prize; and Eugene Davis, consolation prize.

The speaker for the next meeting, August 3, will be Herbert Bruder, of the Bell Telephone Co., who is a member of the Ardmore Rotary Club.

Rotarians are chuckling over the discomfiture of one of their number, a widely-known Narberth physician.

The doctor, playing the eleventh hole at Bala Golf Club, uncorked a sweet shot toward the "flag" only to discover much to his chagrin that the "flag" was not a flag, but a scarecrow hanging helplessly in a victory garden adjacent to the eleventh fairway.

HOME SOLD

William Pugh, Main Line office, reports the sale of semi-detached, stone and stucco dwelling located at 118 Kenilworth Road, Merion, Lower Merion Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, for the Girard Trust Company.

The property was sold for $6000 and was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. John E. McCormack who will occupy the property as their residence.

INCENDIARY BOMBS

Incendiaries are dropped from cases containing approximately 1,000 bombs. Both incendiaries that are explosive and those that are not may be dropped together. As the casing is falling, the bombs start to stray from the rack. Many bombs will drop in a concentrated area; perhaps a dozen will go through the roof of one house. Others will scatter and must be dealt with individually. They may penetrate anywhere from the attic to the basement.

DESCRIPTIONS

The incendiary bomb weighs about two pounds and is about fourteen inches long. If the incendiary is explosive it is about twenty-one inches in length. Treat them all as explosive incendiary bombs.

SELF-PROTECTION

The bomb starts to burn at once, but is timed to explode in two to seven minutes. The explosion will kill at 550 yards and a three-inch stone or brick wall is needed for protection. A cotton mattress placed against a three-inch inside plaster wall will also supply sufficient protection.

If you are fighting the bomb through a window from the outside break the upper and lower panes of glass so that the shattered glass from the expected explosion will not fall on you and cause injury.

If windows are closed in a room where there is a fire, it will assist in controlling it, but if high-explosive bombs are dropping, windows should be kept open to relieve pressure.

USE WATER

From behind protection, water should be played on the bomb and the surrounding area of the room with a jet of strong pressure. After the bomb explodes, the room can be entered and the water can be played directly on the flames.

DUD

If the bomb fails to burn or explode, let it lie for about thirty minutes after having wet it down. Then disturb it from behind protection with a long pole. If it does not go off then, and you want to take a chance, carry it out horizontally and place it horizontally in a hole in the ground, at least eighteen inches deep. Don't let anyone go near the bomb. Report to your local headquarters at once.

EQUIPMENT

Use gloves wherever possible. Use face mask or glasses if available. Axes and crowbars should be used to get at the bomb if it is concealed or behind locked doors. Water thieves make practical use of garden hoses on any faucet. A four-gallon tank with a stirrup pump built in it is particularly recommended. This equipment is Federal Government issue. Use water (not sand) by stirrup pump, garden hose or bucket and can. Soda ash fire extinguishers can be used to fight fire bombs. Tetrachloride extinguishers should never be used since they generate a poisonous gas when used in a confined area.

OTHER BOMBS

Don't pick up anything that has fallen from the air. It may be an anti-personnel bomb and will explode on being touched. These bombs will kill at 50 yards. They may look like a small calibre shell casing or may be in the form of a decorated card.

AUXILIARY GASOLINE TANKS

Auxiliary gasoline tanks made of plywood, about eleven feet long and twenty-six inches in diameter, are also dropped. If these tanks are seen and nothing else is observed, it will be an indication that enemy planes have flown over the neighborhood. Report this at once. Don't touch these auxiliary tanks, as they are highly explosive and dangerous.

FLARES

Flares of usually four million candlepower are dropped during a bombing in order to give the enemy visibility. These bombs have anti-personnel attachments. Don't touch them after they are on the ground.

HIGH-EXPLOSIVE BOMBS

When it is desired to destroy a building of a certain type, the enemy will drop bombs of certain calibre, which do not explode. They usually bury themselves about one foot in the ground, but they have been known to bury themselves as much as 62 feet. This relates, of course, to high-explosive bombs. When this occurs, all people are ordered to be evacuated. People must remain away until removal of the bomb. This will cause deterioration of morale and stoppage of work, which is the enemy's purpose.

SERVICE AVAILABLE

Our institutions and industries will use up most of the fire-fighting equipment. Hence, when the Air Raid Wardens have an emergency on their hands, it is not just a question of what equipment is necessary to be summoned, but what the Control Center can spare. Civilian Defense personnel can control the situation to a great extent by preventing fires, or, at least, retarding the spread of fires.

Editor's Note:—The following information concerning bombs and protection against them is a digest of the remarks of Sector Warden F. Engle Taylor, Jr., and Sergeant Daniel Buehler, Bomb Reconnaissance Officer, Philadelphia Council of Defense, made when they addressed a meeting of Bala-Cynwyd Air Raid Wardens on July 14.

CONTROL POISON IVY

At the Connecticut Experiment Station, it has been discovered that poison ivy can be controlled with ordinary borax. The borax is scattered dry over the ground where the ivy is growing and is absorbed through the roots. One pound will treat 30 square foot of ground.

Miss Golden Weds Corporal T. C. Moore

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Golden, formerly of Brookline, and Corporal Thomas C. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Moore, of Oxford Road, Brookline, took place Saturday, July 17, at the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law and Mrs. Armand Spitz, of Lansdowne.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Haverford Township High School. The couple left immediately for California where Mr. Moore is stationed at Camp Cooke.

Cookies Also Needed Service Men for Wounded

The Emergency Aid Main Line Branch got a record response of 98 per cent from its appeal for help in furnishing lounge and sun porch at the Valley Forge General Hospital. The Camp and Hospital Council of the American Red Cross had asked the Main Line Branch to join with other organizations in furnishing outside porches so necessary in helping wounded men from the battlefronts back to life.

The Emergency Aid appeal has already netted enough to buy maple furniture chairs and couches as well as monks cloth for hangings. So, the Red Cross "promoted" the Emergency Aid from a mere outside sun porch to the lounge and sun porch decorations. When the rooms are complete a plaque, in the keystone form of the Emergency Aid insignia, will hang at the entrance. However, there is still the "two per cent" to be made up in furnishing the sun porch and lounge with necessary diversions, such as radios, victrola records, subscriptions to current magazines and even homemade cookies. Used radios which are in good condition and records can be left at the Main Line Branch headquarters, 874 Lancaster avenue, Bryn Mawr.

Mrs. Samuel B. Eckert is chairman of the Main Line branch and Mrs. A. M. Lehman, of Ardmore, is the Emergency Aid representative chairman, to the American Red Cross Camp and Hospital Council.

Hundreds of men are coming in by plane and hospital trains from the battle front. The Red Cross and Emergency Aid are seeking to provide these wounded soldiers with pleasant surroundings and small luxuries as an aid to their recovery.

Brookline Humbles Narberth in Surprise Win Sunday

In three starts. His mates slapped Tomlinson for eight hits, bunched them for two runs in the sixth for a 3-2 lead, then put the game on ice with another two-run barrage in the ninth.

It was Tomlinson's first defeat in five starts and Narberth's second reverse in ten games.

Manoa had things all its own way in showing the West Phils deeper into the cellar, 9-1 and 3-1. Walt Cantwell was the winner of the first game, but he retired at the end of the fifth with an 80 lead and Ted Westervelt finished. Allison won his third straight by holding the Sullivanmen to five hits in the nightcap. Manoa collected 25 hits in the two games, with shortstop Larry Fife leading the way with three singles and a double.

Fred Brittingham's single in the tenth inning gave Overbrook a 6-5 decision over Pen-Mar and hitherto unbeaten pitcher Lattanzia in the opener of their twinbill, but Pen-Mar came smashing back to score a 13-5 victory in a seven-inning nightcap. Robinson scored his fourth victory of the year in the opener.

Legion Ladies Cheer the Departure of Local Lads

Wednesday evening was "visiting night" of very special significance at the homes of 18 Narberth youths who entrained Thursday morning for Rome, Berlin and Tokio—via New Cumberland Induction Center. The visitors were members of the American Legion Auxiliary who bore gifts from the Narberth Citizens Committee to the lads going into the armed forces. Headed by Mrs. James M. McCaffrey, president of the Auxiliary and chairman of the gift committee, the group numbers some half dozen or so women.

"Something new has been added" applies also to the gifts the ladies presented to the soldiers-to-be. The "purchasing agent" for the gift packages has studiously avoided things which parents are most likely to give their boys, but suffice it to say that the stocks of New York manufacturers and other metropolises have been combed to make the selection an outstanding one. The committee refrains from disclosing the present contents of the gift package so that it may be a surprise to those yet to be inducted. They loosened up, however, to the extent of revealing that one new item is one hundred government issue postcards, all printed with the "Free" stamping, for handy mailing to family and friends before letter writing kits can be unpacked.

The ladies of the Legion Auxiliary Committee have been advised that use of gasoline in delivering the packages to the boys' homes is legitimate, so the problem resolves itself down to who has the gas. Mrs. Frank Leins, the mother of one of the lads leaving this week, Kenneth J. Leins, is one of the chauffeurs while Mrs. Chester Jones is another driver. The package "wrappers" include Mrs. Mary Davis and Mrs. Howard Kaiser, among others. As to Mrs. McCaffrey's duties, she outlined them succinctly in one sentence: "To see that we're fresh out of nothing."

We almost forgot to mention a couple of other items contained in the gift package and revealed by special permission. One is a letter to the inductees from the Citizens Committee giving him what has been termed a new slant on the war and his part in it, said letter being printed on parchment and, as the ads say, suitable for framing. Another gift, not exactly automatic but virtually so, is a card which the new soldier may mail in to this paper after he reaches a temporarily permanent camp, entitling him to a subscription to "Our Town," and thus keep in touch with the home town and its doings.

The gift packages, incidentally, are available to any man or woman of Narberth who join the armed forces as volunteers. Due to the fact that the local Draft Board often does not get the essential information about such persons until after they have left town, the Legion Auxiliary Committee would appreciate receiving the names of such persons a few days in advance of their departure so that they may be given the same package which goes to the draftees.

The departure of 18 men this week also brings to mind one of the group is Robert J. Hobson, 105 North Narberth Avenue. And thereby hangs a tale. In one of the local churches, cardboard fans mounted on wooden handles have been distributed for use these sweltering days. One side of said fan shows sunlight streaming through a cathedral window with the background in holy shadows. The reverse side bears a printed message which struck us as a bit incongruous, to wit: "To render the highest type of service to humanity in its hour of greatest need—that is our calling. To render that service so completely that every detail, however small, is promptly taken care of, so thoughtfully that the burden of sorrow is made lighter—that is ever our goal." And printed below these cheerful thoughts is the signature: "Courtesy of Hobson & Company, Decorators, 105 N. Narberth Ave., Narberth, Pa."

Last Christmas-time about 350 of these Christmas packages were prepared, wrapped and mailed to points in this country and all over the world. Since then, more than 100 packages have been personally presented before the inductees left Narberth.

If you feel that you would like to make some clothes for yourself and your small daughter but feel uncomfortably inexperienced, invest in a dressmaking book. One of these books will tell you many things it's impossible for the patterns to include in their sewing guides, complete as these instructions usually are. The little tricks with plackets, bindings, stitches, tucking, hemming, cording — any finishing as well as cutting and fitting and putting together are explained with diagrams in the dressmaking book.

Whether your vegetables come from your own Victory garden or from a market there are certain fundamentals in their care to keep in mind.

If you have a garden pick the vegetables and use them immediately. Remember that some vitamins are lost if you allow vegetables to wilt after gathering.

If you must gather your vegetables in the morning for evening serving (wash them as soon as you bring them to the kitchen and store them in a covered container in the refrigerator. The cold prevents loss of vitamin C and the covered container keeps them crisp and fresh.

Vegetables that you buy in market should be stored the same way. Berries and other soft fruits such as peaches and pears should be spread out on a platter. This permits more air to circulate around the fruit and prevents mold. Citrus fruits should not be packed tightly but keep container or wrap closely in waxed paper or a vegetable bag. Fruits need not be stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Meat, fish and poultry should be placed in the coldest part of the ice box. Unwrap these products, wipe with a soft clean cloth if necessary, cover with waxed paper and place directly below chilling unit.

Eggs keep best in a wire basket that permits circulation of air around them. Do not wash until ready to use.

Milk and cream must be kept cold to prevent souring. They are easy to store on the shelf provided for tall bottles in the refrigerator.

Butter must be kept in a covered container to avoid absorbing flavors.

Cover all left-over foods. If covered containers are not available cover closely with waxed paper.

Store foods in as small containers as possible, conserving space. Keep foods and containers away from sides of ice box in order to allow free circulation of air which means free circulation of cold.

CAN ALL YOU CAN

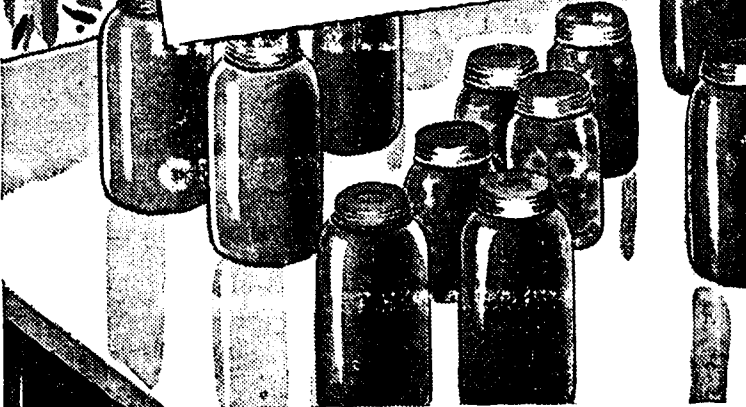

REMEMBER the slogan, "Eat what you can; what you can't, can"? Today, this adage is more appropriate than ever.

Our armed forces need much of the food grown by large producers. Rationing has left big gaps on our food shelves at home. So, it's our patriotic duty to fill these gaps with home-grown, home-canned fruits and vegetables!

Can for Next Winter If You Want Food

With the reports indicating a shortage of canned fruits for civilian consumption in 1944, housewives today were urged to step up home canning of all available fruit varieties during the summer and fall months.

The suggestion, from one of the largest food distributors, carried a warning that some items, including canned apple sauce, may not be available at all to consumers next year.

"Recent reports indicate overall supplies of canned fruits may fall far below trade demands," according to V. G. Perrin, A. & P. sales manager.

"Increased reservations by the armed forces, more attractive prices for some fresh fruits and crop decreases because of unfavorable weather are contributing factors.

"By intensifying home canning of fruit whenever supplies are available, home canners will provide a patriotic service in freeing more of the canned commodities for the armed forces and service to themselves by guarding against a no shortage of nutritious foods."

Pointing out the home canning suggestion is part of his company's new consumer information service, Perrin said the A. & P. is informing housewives locally throughout the country when supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables suitable for canning are reaching the retail market.

"I feel confident that you will welcome and approve this slate as one that is not only well balanced geographically, but representative of the type of public officials that the voters of Montgomery County have in the past endorsed with enthusiastic acclaim.

"I wish to refer briefly to the two candidates for County Commissioner, Messrs. Peters and Hillegass. As County officials, they have established a tax-reducing record and a pay-as-you-go policy of the taxpayers who like to point to the efficient operation of the government of their home county.

"All candidates on this ticket were selected after well considered thought and contact with every section of the County. They are pledged to support the same policies of economy and good government which have been exemplified by our present County Commissioners. The Campaign Committee is confident that these candidates will carry on the outstanding record of public service established by the Montgomery County Republican Organization.

THE KNOTHOLE

Frequently in England a horse without a name wins an important stake race. Rules governing the sport today in England do not demand that a horse be named before starting in a race as a two-year-old but must be named before he can start as a three-year-old. The British plan is that if an owner has a topnotch horse and proves it in its first year of running, then he can select an appropriate name for the animal. In America the rule demands that before a horse can start in a race it must be duly registered and named.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

ABOUT
O. P. A. PRICE PANEL

Each week in this same space the Price Panel of the Ardmore will attempt to answer the most frequently asked questions about the Price Panel—what it is—how it works—what it is expected to accomplish.

Q. Can a merchant refuse to sell me certain merchandise when I know he is selling to other customers?

A. Yes. OPA regulations do not obligate a merchant to sell or to continue to afford patronage to customers.

Q. Can a merchant require the purchase of one article for the privilege of buying another?

A. No. Such an attempt by the seller represents a "tying arrangement" and violates the OPA regulations.

Q. How can I find out, or check up on, correct ceiling prices?

A. Call the Price Panel of your local War Price and Rationing Board by phone or call personally at the office.

Q. Why should I report violations of ceiling prices?

A. 1—Because it's the patriotic thing to do. 2—This helps the OPA

Price Panel to enforce ceiling prices. 3—If violation is due to merchant's failing to understand regulations it gives Price Panel an opportunity to give him the information and assistance in correcting the condition. 4—If every consumer were familiar with ceiling prices and refused to pay more than ceiling prices it would wipe out the black market.

Q. Can a consumer sue the merchant?

A. Yes. If the consumer has made a purchase for his own use or consumption, other than in the course of his trade or business, he may bring suit for three times the amount of the overcharge or $50, whichever is the greater amount, plus responsible attorney's fees and costs determined by the Court.

Q. Will the Price Panel of the local War Price and Rationing

AID SOCIETY SEEKS HOMES FOR FIFTEEN

Issues Appeal for Foster Families in Montgomery Co.

The Children's Aid Society of Montgomery County has issued an appeal to residents to take children into their homes. Miss Margaret Betts, county secretary of the society, which is located at 17 W. Airy Street, Norristown, has announced that there were two hundred and eleven boys and girls in the care of the Children's Aid during the month of July.

More than one hundred foster families throughout the county have taken children into their homes, but many more foster parents are needed.

Four of the children under the society's care have been discharged to their own parents, fifteen have been sent to summer camps, and eleven of the older boys and girls are working to contribute to their own support, under the supervision of the agency and their foster parents.

The Society is now seeking homes for fifteen new children. Many of them are children of men in the service who cannot provide for their care, or children of sick mothers, or orphans. Several of them are babies less than a year old.

Any one interested in furnishing a home to one of these children should communicate with the Children's Aid Society.

When cooking potatoes it is well to remember that the greatest loss of the vitamin C content occurs when potatoes are boiled in salted water without skins.

Board act for the consumer or must the consumer employ his own attorney?

A. The consumer must employ his own attorney.

Q. Can a price violation be settled out of court?

A. Yes. If the merchant and consumer can reach an agreement acceptable to both.

During Tuesday night's blackout, one air raid warden charged with the duty of obtaining blackness in an apartment house in Narberth, discovered lights blazing forth from a second story window. He promptly blew his trusty whistle and nothing happened. So he rang the bell at the front door. Still no answer. Then a fellow warden appeared and announced that the apartment was empty—though rented, it had not yet been occupied and the lights were inadvertently left on by a janitor cleaning there.

It shows a nice spirit when a couple of busy fellows, namely Bill Davies and Frank Hutchinson, agree to be candidates for another term in the Borough Council. Unlike the Township Commissioners in Lower Merion (who pull down $600 per year or $25 per meeting), councilmen in boroughs of the state get nothing but headaches, problems and some sense of satisfaction from doing a necessary job for their community.

Successful Parenthood

Mothers are frequently told when they ask for advice on their problems that their child is just "going through a phase" and not to worry. That is O.K. so far as it goes, but parents being human, sometimes they'd like to be told how to live through a certain phase! For instance, there is the exploratory stage, as psychologists call it, which begins when the child outgrows his play pen and the toys handed to him and starts investigating the house, with the very laudable purpose of learning his environment. But how can you encourage him to get the most out of this learning experience and still live in comparative peace with a child who is into everything?

There are two approaches to the problem. If you are a very busy mother you'll probably have to take the "Safety First" approach, which is to put everything breakable out of reach, as well as everything on which the child might hurt himself, such as light cords. Your house won't look as nice as you like it to, but this stage of your child's development will be a more comfortable one for you both. And after the baby has been put to bed it doesn't take long to dress the living room up a bit for a sociable evening with your husband or friends.

The other approach is the "guidance" one, and if you have the time to follow through on it we believe it is the better procedure. First, you accept the fact that it is necessary for a child to satisfy his curiosity about the things he lives with. Up to now his world has been pretty much bed, carriage, pen, high chair and his own toys. But now that he is interested in living room, dining room, kitchen, he must be made to feel that he belongs there too if he is to grow up with a satisfying sense of sharing a home, not of being an intruder from whom you guard your possessions.

This is accomplished by introducing the child to everything which catches his interest. When his eye lights up at the sight of books, help him take a few from the shelves, show him how to hold them, how to turn the pages. "These are mother's," you say, "see how carefully we hold them." There should be books for baby, but these, too, he is taught to handle carefully. The pots and pans from the kitchen cupboard will survive his attentions without much supervision, but always let him help put them back so that he learns things don't belong in the middle of the floor.

About light cords, fire screen, small tables, you say, "No, No," in a tone that he understands. Small breakable objects, unless they are too precious, he should be allowed to handle under your direction. In other words, during these first weeks of exploratory activity someone should be on duty to explain and admonish, and to protect the child from his ignorance of the hundred and one new things he is curious about. Your reward for this patient effort will be a child well adjusted to living with things not all of which he can touch at will. And he will have escaped a constant chorus of "No, Nos," which soon cease to have meaning for him. It is when "No" is used sparingly that it is most effective.

But with either method of handling this phase of development, a child should have some space of his very own.

By LITTLE HULL

Safest Investment in the World

There are 50 million holders of U. S. war bonds and the number is increasing rapidly. Fifty million and only a very tiny percentage of this vast number is composed of "vulgar rich." Not that the "vulgar rich" haven't done their share—they have, and then some. But there aren't many rich, vulgar or otherwise. No—99 per cent of this 50 million is made up of laborers, farmers, clerks, soldiers, widows, wives and children.

Now when you begin to monkey with someone's pocket-book you get into trouble. In fact, most of the trouble in this world is caused by pocket-books—in a broad sense of the term. Wars usually go back to economic poaching of one sort or another and personal worries and troubles emanate usually from dollar bills—or lack of them.

When the Revolutionaries overran France at the end of the 18th century—only a tiny few Frenchmen had any money or property. There were very few pocketbooks affected, and the owners of those had their heads cut off to end their objections.

In Russia, when Lenin and Trotsky took over, the entire populace—with an infinitesimally few exceptions—was composed of poor people. In Germany Hitler based his political calculations upon this same condition.

Under such circumstances it is comparatively simple and easy to wipe out all debts created by former governments, and issue new money. There are few to object—in fact, most everyone is pleased. But let us suppose that half the people of any one of these nations had saved and slaved to lend money to their government and were then advised by the new outfit in power to paper the walls of their homes with cancelled bonds. Messrs. Robespierre, Lenin, Trotsky and Hitler would have remained in their usurped jobs just about long enough for the news to get around.

There is a habit of believing that a tyrant can kidnap a nation and against the will of its people. This is not the case. An individual or a group can grab control and hold it for a limited period but they can maintain that control just so long as the great mass of the people is satisfied—or at least just so long as they do not become violently opposed to the regime. When the French people turned against Robespierre, they cut off his head; and Oliver Cromwell just squeaked through until the devil carried him off; after which the public dug him up and cut off his head. All of which transpired a few years after King Charles "got his" from a dissatisfied public. And so it always goes.

No matter what sort of government is in control of this nation in post-war days—its greatest care will be to avoid infuriating half the citizenry by trifling with their pocketbooks. The stability of the government's debt to half or more of its citizenry, in the form of war bonds, will be maintained no matter what happens to other values and investments. And the wider the ownership the greater the security. The treasury hopes to have a hundred million holders of war bonds some day—and if we have any doubts about our personal financial future—we had best help them attain their objective.

—Buy War Savings Stamps—

Washington, D. C. (NWN)—Political analysts are watching with keen interest the pressure which is now being brought on congressmen by organized groups in their home districts. With congressmen making an extended visit to their homes for the first time in over 4 years, each one is finding out in no uncertain terms what the people who elected him want him to do. Whether this local pressure will influence legislation when they return is still a question, but it is expected that it will at least intensify the congressional battles which have been flaring during the past year.

Each congressman is being sought out by local labor organizations in an effort by labor to put an end to legislation which it thinks is harmful to its interests. On the other hand, non-labor groups and farmers are asking their congressmen for still stronger curbs on labor. Farmers are seeking a better price break from their congressmen while consumers are asking for an end to food price rises. It is being made clear to congressmen that the conflicts which they must weigh on a national scale when in Washington are going on with equal fervor among the people who voted for them.

But reports coming back to this city indicate that the majority of congressmen will return with the feeling that the majority of people think labor has been mollycoddled too much, that the majority want food prices stabilized but at the same time want the farmer to be given all possible help so far as machinery, manpower and fair prices are concerned, that the majority of people are more fed up with bureaucracy than they have been since 1932, and that the people want a clear division drawn between the things which are related to winning the war and those changes in our economy which have some other purpose.

A statement made by the President in his veto of the Commodity Credit corporation bill, which was not given much attention at the time he made it, is now being interpreted as a gesture of friendliness toward certain unorganized groups whose voices will be heard for the first time when they get the ear of their congressmen. In that statement the President said:

"It is too easy to act on the assumption that all consumers have surplus purchasing power; and that the high earnings of some workers in munition plants are enjoyed by all. The fact that more than 4,000,000 wage workers still earning less than 40 cents per hour... ignores the fact that more than four million families have not had an increase of more than 5 per cent in their incomes during the last 18 months. It further ignores the millions of salaried, white-collar workers... whose salaries have remained low, but whose living standards are being cruelly and inequitably slashed by higher food prices... these unorganized millions must not become the forgotten men and women of our war economy."

These people, who keep hearing about the surplus purchasing power which must be drained off by bond purchases and taxes, are pouring out their troubles to their congressmen, are complaining about their high taxes and cost of living, and are asking for relief.

When the congress returns to Washington in September, it will be asked to enact further taxes. With the complaints of these unorganized groups still clear in their minds, they will be hesitant to agree to any further income taxes. But they probably will listen, more favorably, to plans for a national sales tax which would put the extra tax burden on those who are purchasing the most goods. In agreeing to this, it is also likely that they will consider raising present income tax exemptions to help solve the financial problems of those from the lowest income groups whose incomes have not been increased by the war but whose living costs have soared.

FINES IMPOSED

Blackout violations were heard at Haverford Township Police Headquarters last Wednesday evening before Magistrate Edward Lynch, and fines were imposed upon Lawrence B. Schlegel, owner of the Manoa Pharmacy, 1007 West Chester Pike, Manoa, and John Conroy, 1443 Lawrence Rd., Oakmont.

"YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT NOW DO YOUR BEST!"

DURING the first year of our toughest war, we—

Trained millions of fighting men—made millions of dollars worth of fighting tools—built millions of tons of shipping to carry these men and tools to the fighting fronts.

And to help pay for it all, we bought War Bonds. Altogether, 50 millions of us bought War Bonds. And nearly 30 millions of us started putting, on the average, 10 percent of our pay into War Bonds every pay day through the Payroll Savings Plan.

That was a good start—a whale of a good start. But, every American knows that it was only a start. Nobody would contend for a single instant that what we did in '42 is enough for '43!

Did we make 48,000 planes last year? Believe it or not—we did. But we've got to make 100,000 this year! Sure! We broke every record in the world last year, building 8 million tons of shipping. But everybody knows that the 18 million tons we're building this year isn't enough!

We've got to do more fighting this year. We've got to do more building, more training, more shipping—and more saving.

We've got to buy more War Bonds. Is that too much to ask? Many of us are making more money than we have made for years. The things we'd like to buy with that money have either disappeared or are as "scarce as hen's teeth." So, why not put that money into War Bonds at good interest—$4 for every $3 when the Bonds mature? Money to help pay for the war—keep prices down—provide peacetime jobs and peacetime goods and a generally decent world for all of us when the war is won.

Chances are, you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. See if you can't boost your ante! Do your best!

How millions of Americans have done their bit—and how they can do better:

Of the 34 million Americans on plant payrolls, nearly 30 millions of them have joined the Payroll Savings Plan. (If you aren't in yet—sign up tomorrow!)

Those Americans who have joined the Plan are investing, on the average, 10 percent of their earnings in War Bonds. (If you haven't reached 10 percent yet—keep trying!)

BUT...

America's income this year will be the highest in history: about 125 BILLION dollars! In spite of all taxes and price rises, the average worker will have more money than last year—more than ever before!

That is why Uncle Sam has a right to ask us, individually, to invest more money in War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. He asks us to invest not 10 percent or 15 percent or 20 percent, but all we can!

YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT --- NOW DO YOUR BEST!

WE MUST KNOW "WHY" AS WELL AS "HOW"
Pharmacy is a profession in which knowledge and accuracy are vital. It is important that your pharmacist know why a drug is included in a prescription, and important that he fill it properly.
